SIGNATURE PRESENTATION

TAME YOUR INNER CRITIC; LIBERATE YOUR AUTHENTIC VOICE

Whether they are experienced business leaders, emerging leaders, or entrepreneurs, many women fear other people's opinions and "not getting it right" when they speak, which keeps them paralyzed and constantly second-guessing themselves. Kim Boudreau Smith is a master at showing women how to turn down the volume on their inner critic (or, as she calls it, "Hag in the Attic"), so they can accelerate their impact and leadership.

In this presentation, audience members will learn how to:

- Confront imposter syndrome by changing their self-talk from critical to compassionate
- Release perfectionism by shifting from a fixed to a growth mindset
- Detach from other people's opinions and pursue visibility opportunities where they can authentically shine
- Remove the "could-haves, should-haves, and would-haves" from their vocabulary and replace it with bold and confident (empowering) language
- Drop the "shoulder-padded" masculine-driven stance and embrace their bold feminine leadership

After 25+ years in a variety of leadership roles, Kim Boudreau Smith has made it her mission to help women leaders (re)discover their feminine power so they can lead as their authentic selves.

ADDITIONAL TOPICS

Activate Your Authentic Voice to Close More Sales Conversations

Whether they are selling products, programs, or other services, too many women are following an inherently masculine model of selling. As a result, they flip flop between being in their heads, judging and second-guessing themselves, or they are hyper-focused on their words, trying to control others in their desire to move them to action.

Harness Your Feminine Leadership Power

Too many women struggle with one thing when it comes to leadership: confidence. As a result, they second-guess themselves, or feel the pangs of imposter syndrome as they attempt to control their staff and colleagues and move them to take action.
